California State Parks and The Resources Agency Host “ Museums and Native People in Partnership” Wednesday, February 27, 5 p.m. in Sacramento

California State Parks and the Resources Agency will present “Museums and Native People In Partnership” on Wednesday, February 27, from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Resources Building Auditorium, First Floor, 1416 9th Street, in Sacramento. The program is free to the public.

The presentation will be made by Dr. Bruce Bernstein, Director of the Cultural Resources Center of the National Museum of the American Indian, which is part of the Smithsonian Institution.

The National Museum of the American Indian is the first national museum dedicated to the preservation, study, and exhibition of the life, languages, literature, history, and arts of Native Americans. Congress established it in 1989 as the 16th museum of the Smithsonian Institute. The museum works in collaboration with the Native peoples of the Western Hemisphere to protect and foster their cultures by reaffirming traditions and beliefs, encouraging contemporary artistic expression, and empowering the Indian voice.

For more information about the program, call 653-5910.
